

LOCAL HISTORICAL, ARCHAEOLOGICAL, CULTURALLY AND SPIRITUALLY IMPORTANT BUILDINGS AND PLACES

It is of paramount importance that our presence does not negatively impact on the cultural identity of our host countries.

- We strive to build a strong cultural awareness and respect amongst ourselves.
- Please contribute to the protection of local historical, archaeological, cultural and spiritual importance of properties and sites, improving awareness and access to them for local residents
- We are happy our clients and staff with the unique opportunity to live and work alongside rural communities, away from the traditional tourist circuit so that they can experience the true essence of the country they are visiting, creating a wholly positive experience for both visitors and hosts
- Please use waste bins, do not smoke, do not speak loudly, do not visit these places if you feel drunk and follow other written rules during your visits to local historical, archaeological, culturally and spiritually important buildings and places
- Historical/archaeological artefacts are not sold, traded or displayed except as permitted by law
- Our volunteer code of conduct can include established guidelines for visits to culturally or historically sensitive sites
- Please ask for more specific information to our guest relation department about where you are planning to visit
- We ensure that visits to local culturally/historically significant places are incorporated into our volunteer programmes wherever possible
